LOK SABHA

The following Bills were introduced in Lok Sabha on 20th December, 1996:-

BILL No. 52 of 1996

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1996.

Short title.

2. Article 370 of the Constitution shall be omitted.

Omission of article 370.

Article 370 has no meaning in the present situation. The State of Jammu and Kashmir has become part and parcel of India. Number of elections held during the last 46 years have proved that Jammu and Kashmir is as good a State of India as other States are. The State has lost many opportunities due to this article as big industrialists are not interested in setting up industries in the State under the present situation. The State has thus remained industrially backward. This article gives Pakistan an opportunity to raise the Kashmir question on various international forums. The people of the State are interested in removing this article immediately so that they can feel proud of being part and parcel of India.

Hence, this is the right time to omit this article so that the people of the State can also enjoy the fruits of progress of the country as are being enjoyed by the people of other States.

Hence this Bill.

New Delhi; July 11, 1996 KASHIRAM RANA

BILL NO. 104 OF 1996

A Bill further to amend the Representation of the People Act, 1951.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:---

1. (1) This Act may be called the Representation of the People (Amendment) Act, 1996.

Short title and commencement,

(2) It shall come into force at once.

43 of 1951.

2. After section 62 of the Representation of the People Act, 1951, the following section shall be inserted, namely :---

Insertion of new section 63.

63. (1) The Election Commission shall issue photo identity cards to all eligible voters to enable them to vote at all elections.

(2) No person shall be allowed to vote at an election unless he produces before the presiding officers the photo identity card issued to him by the Election Commission.

At present, photo identity cards are being issued by Election Commission to all eligible voters so as to enable them to vote at elections. In many States the process has been completed and in many States the identity cards are yet to be issued. Presently, there is no provision in the law for issuance of photo identity cards to voters.

The issue of issuance of photo identity cards by the Election Commission of India, becoming a condition precedent for any person to cast his vote, has been attracting the attention of various political parties for quite a long time. The issuance of photo identity cards becomes meaningless if it is not provided in the Act that a voter without an identity card shall not be allowed to cast his vote. The instances of bogus voting and impersonation at the time of polling have been increasing day by day. There is an urgent need to check these malpractices.

The Bill seeks to make suitable amendments to the Representation of the People Act, 1951 with a view to achieving the objective.

New Delhi; August 29, 1996 SATYA PAL JAIN

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 2 of the Bill provides that Election Commission shall issue photo identity cards to all eligible voters for the purpose of voting at all elections. The measure will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is estimated that an annual recurring expenditure of about rupees One crore is likely to be involved.

A non-recurring expenditure of about rupces one crore is also likely to be involved.

BILL No. 105 of 1996

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

- 1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1996.
- 2. In article 16, clause (4) shall be omitted.
- 3. After article 16 of the Constitution, the following article shall be inserted, namely:—
- "16A. (1) There shall be reservation in appointments of posts in favour of socially and educationally backward classes of citizens in the services under the State.
- (2) The number of appointments or posts reserved under clause (1) for the socially and educationally backward classes of citizens, shall be in such proportion as their population bears to the total population of the country:

Provided that such number of appointments or posts reserved for them shall not exceed sixty-five percent. of the total number of posts or appointments in the services under the State.

(3) Notwithstanding anything in this Constitution, no court shall have any jurisdiction in respect of any reservation made under this article.

Explanation.—For the purposes of this article, the expression 'population' means the population as ascertained at the last preceding census of which the relevant figures have been published.".

Short title.

Amendment of article 16. Insertion of new article

16A.
Reservation
for socially and educationally backward classes of citizens.

The system of reservation of posts and appointments for backward classes has been prevailing in the erstwhile Madras and Mysore States from 1916 onwards. The concept of reservation of posts and appointments for the socially and educationally backward classes of citizens has been enshrined in the Constitution of India as part of social justice. The principle of this reservation as well as percentage thereof has always been subject matter of controversy in the society and the courts. Pursuant to the recommendation of the Mandal Commission, the Central Government made provision for reservation for socially and educationally backward classes of citizens in appointments and posts in the services under the State. However, this issue became subject matter of agitation by other communities and also before various courts. The Supreme Court while upholding the Central Government decision to reserve posts in services for other backward classes, has laid down that such reservation should not exceed 50% of the total number of posts and appointments. Therefore, in view of the judgement, it has become difficult to implement the provisions of reservation for other backward classes in accordance with the recommendation of the Mandal Commission.

Subsequent to the judgement of the Supreme Court, the Tamil Nadu Assembly passed a law prescribing reservation of 69% of the total number of posts and appointments for other backward classes and the law has been given shelter in the Constitution by its inclusion in the Ninth Schedule. This benefit is, however, not extended to the people belonging to other backward classes in other parts of the country and thus they are deprived of their due.

With this in view, the Bill seeks to amend the Constitution with a view to providing for reservation in services under the State for people belonging to other backward classes in accordance with their population and also for excluding the jurisdiction of courts in this matter.

New Delhi; September 16, 1996. P. KODANDARAMAIAH

BILL No. 109 of 1996

A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:-

1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1996.

Short title.

2. After article 16 of the Constitution, the following article shall be inserted, namely:—

Insertion of new article 16A

"16A. Notwithstanding anything in this Constitution, thirty per cent of Reservation of appointments or posts in services under the State shall be reserved for women.".

posts for women.

Despite great efforts made to ameliorate the sufferings of women, they continue to remain socially and economically weak. They, therefore, deserve special considerations and facilities for improving the quality of their life. The percentage of women in employment is very low. There is job reservation for Scheduled Castes, Scheduled Tribes and Backward Classes in order to cover the leeway. But no such reservation exists for women, who constitute a large segment of socially and educationally backward population. They are denied social justice.

In order that women may enjoy the fruits of social justice, the job reservation facilities should be extended to women as in the case of other weaker sections of the society.

Hence this Bill.

CHITTA BASU

Bill No. 108 of 1996 A Bill further to amend the Constitution of India.

BE it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Constitution (Amendment) Act, 1996.

2. For article 285 of the Constitution, the following article shall be substituted, namely:—

"285. Parliament may by law authorise a State or any local authority within that State to levy any tax on any property of the Union subject to such conditions or limitations as may be prescribed by such law.

Explanation.— In this article "local authority" means any municipality, municipal corporation, district-board, panchayat or any such other local authority by whatever name called.".

Short title.

Substitution of new article for article 285.

Tax on property of the Union by a State or local authority.

At present, a number of Public Sector Undertakings belonging to the Central Government, Departmental Organisations, Railways, Defence Instalments, etc. own vast preperties in Corporation, Municipal and Panchayat areas all over the country. These properties of the Central Government are exempted from being taxed by the local self Government authorities under article 285 of the Constitution. Although, the infrastructure of the local self Government authorities are fully utilised by the Public Sector Undertakings and Departmental Organisations, they do not pay any taxes on property, as in the case of other property owners. This anomaly requires to be removed.

The Bill seeks to authorise the local self Government authorities to levy taxes on the properties of the Central Government.

10 of 1949.

Majority of the students in our country are not able to pursue higher education due to poor financial conditions of their parents. Although, students are brilliant and want to pursue higher education, poverty comes in the way of their pursuit.

Professional and technical colleges charge exhorbitant fees for admission which the students cannot afford.

With a view to encouraging poor students to continue their education, it is proposed to provide loans on easy terms to them which can be repaid by them after they secure jobs.

Although several banks offer loans for continuing education, such schemes are not attractive and beyond the means of majority of the parents. Therefore, it is proposed to set up a Bank exclusively for the purpose of assisting the students by providing them loans for continuing higher education.

Hence this Bill.

 - (b) the wage rates and overtime rates which an agricultural worker is entitled to under this Act;
 - (c) the form of registers and records to be maintained;
 - (d) the powers of the Conciliation Officer;
 - (e) the procedure to be followed by the Conciliation Officer and the Agricultural Tribunal;
 - (f) the fees to be paid for applications and appeals under this Act;
 - (g) the manner of estimating the cash value of the wages paid in kind;
 - (h) the procedure to be followed by appropriate Government under sections 24 and 25; and
 - (i) any other matter which has to be, or may be, prescribed under the provisions of this Act.

The problems of agricultural labour have been under consideration of the Government for quite some time. Various All-India Agricultural Labour Enquiries, the Rural Labour Enquiry and the All-India Seminar on Agricultural Labour in 1965 highlighted the problems of Agricultural Labour e.g. unemployment, under-employment, low wages, lack of amenities, inadequate housing, lack of organisation; resulting in a low standard of living.

Keeping in view the fact that India is a predominantly rural country, with nearly 80 per cent of its population living in rural areas, the problems of agricultural workers assume greater importance because of the sheer number involved. According to the 1971 Census, agricultural labourers in India numbered 47-48 millions against 31.52 millions in 1961. The Rural Labour Enquiry 1974-75, estimated that agricultural labour households form about 86 per cent of the rural labour households and that the total population covered in the category of agricultural labour was 335 millions, of which about half would be wage earners. The average earnings of wages per man-day for agricultural labour house-holds, as revealed by the 25th round of the National Sample Survery, focus the abysmal poverty of the agricultural workers of our country.

The following laws relate to various aspects of organised and unorganised labour applicable throughout India to a limited extend:—

- (1) Minimum Wages Act, 1948.
- (2) Payment of Wages Act, 1936
- (3) Employees' Provident Fund and Miscellaneous Provisions Act, 1952
- (4) Payment of Gratuity Act, 1972
- (5) Industrial Disputes Act, 1947
- (6) The Trade Union Act, 1926
- (7) Workmen's Compensation Act, 1923
- (8) Employees' State Insurance Act, 1948
- (9) Maternity Benefit Act, 1961.

There is however, no legislation with totality of approach to the problems or agricultural labour, barring the Kerala Agricultural Workers Act, 1974 which is a comprehensive legislation for agricultural workers in Kerala. At present, the main Central Legislation to safeguard the interests of agricultural workers is the Minimum Wages Act, 1948. States and Union Territories responsible for the enforcement of this Act have been urged, from time to time, to ensure strict enforcement of the notified minimum wages by strengthening the administrative set up utilising the staff of other Departments, e.g. Revenue, Agriculture, Rural Development, etc., increasing the number of claims authorities and by giving wide publicity to the notified wages. Though some progress has been made, there are, however, frequent reports about the non-payment of notified minimum wages to agricultural workers.

The question of a Central legislation on the conditions of living and of work of agricultural workers was under consideration of the Government of India for quite some time. As early as in May, 1975, the second meeting of the Standing Committee on Agricultural Labour underlined the need for a Central legislation on the subject. In July, 1975, the 26th Session of the Labour Ministers' Conference commended the Kerala Agricultural Workers' Act, 1974 and suggested adoption of a uniform Central legislation on the subject.

In view of the large number of agricultural workers in India, whose conditions, are at present not adequately safeguarded by the existing legislation, enactment of a Central legislation would go a long way in ameliorating the problem of agricultural labour to a considerable extend.

Hence this Bill.

Sec. 2]

STATEMENT OF OBJECTS AND REASONS

It is a very sad feature that is revealed at all elections that the number of voters who actually cast their votes is far less than those eligible. The average number of votes polled is around 50 per cent. It is a glaring commentary on the responsibility of citizens that the fate of the country's democratic institutions has been left to be decided by about 50 per cent of the electorate. Since the trend of voting from time to time does not show any appreciable increase in the number of those who exercise their franchise, time has come to ensure that all the citizens exercise their sovereign right to choose their representatives, so that the elections may reflect the will of the whole electorate and not merely that of a part of it. In 11th Lok Sabha, in number of States the voting was less than 40 per cent and in number of cases people had boycotted elections and thus did not vote deliberately.

With a view to increasing the voting percentage, the present Bill purports to make it compulsory for every eligible voter to vote and to provide for exemption only in cases where the voter is physically incapacitated due to illness of serious nature. In these cases also Election Commission shall arrange for mobile booths for those who are unable to cast their votes at polling booths.

Since the provision is being made compulsory, punishment is also sought to be given to those who do not vote at elections. However, reward is also proposed to be given to those persons who vote at elections inspite of their illness or without any break.

Hence this Bill.

A non-recurring of about rupees fifty lakh is also likely to be involved.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 5 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the purposes of the Bill which will relate to matters of details only. The delegation of legislative power is, therefore, of a normal character.

Power to make rules.

The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, make rules for carrying out the purposes of this Act.

Despite all efforts made and welfare measures taken by the Central Government and the State Governments, the practice of begging continues unabated all over the country, especially in the metropolitan cities and urban centres. There are organised gangs who exploit innocent children and force them into begging not for the sustenance of these boys and girls but for gathering alms for the gang leaders and organisers. Some people have made forcing children into begging a business. They kidnap children and force them to go for begging and collect huge amount.

As per 1971 census the number of beggars in the country was 10 lakhs and the number has considerably increased during subsequent years.

Prevention of begging has to go alongwith programmes for education, training and rehabilitation of the children, women and men found engaged in begging. Some alternative source of livelihood have to be found for the beggars.

Therefore, it is high time that a law for prevention of begging is brought forward. Hence this Bill.

New Delhi; November 4, 1996. T. SUBBARAMI REDDY

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

Clause 5 of the Bill provides for establishment of "receiving centres" in every district by the appropriate Government. Clause 6 provides for setting up of Beggars' Welfare Fund. Clause 7 provides for formulation of schemes and creating suitable infrastructure by appropriate Government in every district so as to enable beggars to take up suitable jobs. It further provides for setting up of destitute homes by the appropriate Government. The Central Government would have to incur expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India for establishment of receiving centres, destitute homes, formulating schemes, creating suitable infrastructure in respect of Union territories and shall also have to contribute monies into Beggars' Welfare Fund. As far as establishment of receiving centres, destitute homes, formulation of schemes and creating suitable infrastructure in the States are concerned, the concerned State Governments will incur expenditure from their Consolidated Funds, though the Central Government may have to extend some financial assistance to States for implementing the provisions of the Bill. The Bill, therefore, if enacted, will involve expenditure from the Consolidated Fund of India. It is likely to involve a recurring expenditure of about rupees one hundred crore per annum.

A non-recurring expenditure of about rupees fifty lakhs is also likely to be involved.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 8 empowers the Central Government to make rules for carrying out the provisions of the Bill. Since the rules will relate to matters of detail only, the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

 - (c) any other matter which has to be, or may be, prescribed.

India is a developing country and a large number of people are uneducated, unemployed and poor. Moreover, the children, who are the future of the country, are under-nourished and education is not being imparted to them as per the requirement of the present times. The rich people can spend money for better education of their children. Whereas the large majority of the poor people cannot afford to utilise the natural potentialities of their children. Due to the lack of proper nourished diet and health care, the children become victims of a number of incurable diseases. Therefore, there is an urgent need to formulate a national policy for the development of children. In this connection it is proposed to establish Child Welfare Board. The Child Welfare Boards will examine the capability and capacity of a child and make recommendations for the better development of the child. This will also result in lesser drop-outs from schools. Children will also get employment oriented education and talented children in sports will be trained so that they can perform better in the international arena of sports.

Hence this Bill.

342A. Other Backward Clames.

The population of India is about ninety crores. At present, eighty-five per cent. of the population of India constitutes of the Scheduled Castes, the Scheduled Tribes and the Other Backward Classes. The Scheduled Castes and Scheduled Tribes have already been given representation in the House of the People on the basis of their population, keeping in view, the principle of social justice. Similarly, about sixty-two per cent. of our population, which constitute Other Backward Classes, have not yet been given any representation either in the House of the People or in the Legislative Assemblies. After 49 years of Independence, communities of Other Backward Classes are still economically, educationally, politically and socially backward. It is, therefore, imperative that seats be reserved for the Other Backward Classes in the House of the People and Legislative Assemblies so as to uphold the principle of social justice. The Bill also proposes to set up a National Commission for Other Backward Classes which shall oversee the overall interests including socio-economic development of Other Backward Classes.

Hence this Bill.

Act to have over riding effect. 18. The provisions of this Act shall have effect notwithstanding anything inconsistent therewith contained in any other law for the time being in force or in any instrument having effect by virtue of any law other than this Act.

Although articles 38, 39 and 46 of the Constitution require the State to promote educational and economic interests of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes in order to render social justice to them and since employment including promotions in service is an aspect of economic interest of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes, it is, therefore, the duty of the State to give adequate protection to the economic interests of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes. Moreover, it has been our national policy to make special provisions for the advancement of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes in matters relating to their employment or appointment, including promotions, to any office under the State. This view was also upheld by the Supreme Court in Rangachari's case in 1962 and ever since many judgements have been delivered by the Supreme Court on the above principle including the judgements in the Thomas' case and the Railway Karamachari Sangh's case.

However, in the recent Mandal case the Supreme Court took the view that reservation is confined only to initial recruitment and does not include promotion and, as such, reservation in promotion is not covered under article 16(4) of the Constitution. The decision of the Supreme Court is enforceable throughout the territory of India under article 142 of the Constitution unless a law is made by the Parliament annulling the effect of the decision of the Supreme Court.

In such circumstances it has, therefore, become necessary to amend article 16 and Ninth Schedule to the Constitution making reservation in promotion as a part of reservation scheme and such reservation of appointment and posts, which includes reservation in promotion in services and posts under the State, may not be subject to any judicial scrutiny.

However, it is all the more important that a separate Act should be made providing for ensuring reservation in appointments and posts for the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes, including reservation for them in promotions in all the departments of the Central Government and State Governments, nationalised banks, public sector undertakings, statutory authorities, autonomous bodies, companies or corporations, societies, local authorities, universities, educational institutions affiliated to the universities or those recognised by the Central Government or receiving aid from the Central Government, etc. Moreover, penal provisions have to be provided to ensure effective implementation of the Act and to ensure that the reservation is not less than fifteen per cent. of the total number of vacancies for members of the Scheduled Castes and seven and half per cent. of the total number of vacancies for members of the Scheduled Tribes at any given point of time.

The Bill seeks to achieve the above objective.

In India, poverty is one of the biggest problems. Even after fifty years of independence, we have not been able to contain the poverty. Although, our country has progressed in many fields, yet it has failed to improve the standard of living of the people. There may be many reasons for poverty.

It has been observed that income of a small family as compared to its income in the year 1965 has not improved much. There are large number of families where there is not even a single earning member and most of them earn their livelihood by working as labourers, domestic servants, bonded labourers, etc. Majority of population lives below poverty line. Our country being a welfare State should take necessary steps to improve the lot of the people and formulate schemes and plans to eradicate poverty from the country.

With this in view it is proposed to make a positive step towards eradicating poverty. It is proposed that atleast one adult member of every family should be provided with employment and where it is not possible to provide employment, the family should be given all necessary facilities for decent and reasonable livelihood.

The Bill seeks to achieve the above objective.

BILL No 118 of 1996

A Bill to provide for the establishment of a permanent Bench of the High Court at Allahabad at Meerut.

Be it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the High Court at Allahabad (Establishment of a permanent Bench at Meerut) Act, 1996.

2. There shall be established a permanent Bench of the High Court at Allahabad at Meerut and such Judges of the High Court at Allahabad, being not less than three in number, as the Chief Justice of that High Court may from time to time nominate, shall sit at Meerut in order to exercise the jurisdiction and power for the time being vested in that High Court in respect of cases arising in the districts of Mathura, Agra, Aligarh, Firozabad, Pauri, Tehri,

Nainital, Almora, Dehradun, Haridwar, Muzaffarnagar, Meerut, Ghaziabad, Bulandshahr, Bijnore and Moradabad.

Short Title.

Establishment of a permanent Bench of High Court at Allahabad at Meerut.

There has been a persistent demand for setting up of a permanent Bench of the High Court at Allahabad in western Uttar Pradesh. More than 1,00,000 cases have been pending in Allahabad High Court for quite a long time.

Meerut city is a prominent central place in western Uttar Pradesh where modern communication and transport facilities are available. At present, the people belonging to the districts of western Uttar Pradesh have to travel to Allahabad in connection with their cases. It is a time consuming and costly affair. In the interest of cheap and speedy justice and convenience of the litigant public, it is necessary to establish a permanent Bench of the High Court at Allahabad at Meerut.

The Jaswant Singh Commission, appointed to go into issues regarding establishment of Benches at various High Courts, had recommended that a Bench of the High Court at Allahabad be established in western Uttar Pradesh.

The Bill seeks to achieve the above objective.

The people of Uttaranchal (eight hill districts of Uttar Pradesh and Kumbha Mela area of Haridwar district) have made significant contribution in the freedom struggle of India. The specific social and economic problems of the people of this region require special treatment in democratic and independent India. The problems of the people of this region have been accumulating and the people continue to suffer.

The people of this region are not getting justice properly because the present administration is not acquainted with the unique problems faced by the people. However, the people of hilly regions have to travel a long distance to sort out their problems.

The creation of separate States, such as Himachal Pradesh, Nagaland, Arunachal Pradesh and others in Northern and Eastern India, which were similarly situated, and where population is even less than those of the eight hill districts and Kumbha Mela area of Haridwar district of Uttar Pradesh, proves that such administrative changes are successful in achieving sustained growth and development of the concerned areas.

The two successive Assemblies of Uttar Pradesh also felt this need and hence unequivocally recommended creation of a separate State consisting of the area covered in this Bill.

The formation of a separate hill State of Uttaranchal is essential to ensure a balanced development of this region in all its dimensions so that the rich intellectual potential of the people of this region and even richer material resources available with unique advantage of environment are duly exploited by an appropriate democratic set-up to unleash the creative energies of the people of Uttaranchal. It is, therefore, proposed to provide for the establishment of the State of Uttaranchal with its legislature, executive and the Judiciary like other Indian States in accordance with the Constitution of India.

Hence this Bill.

New Delhi; July 2, 1996. MANBENDRA SHAH

PRESIDENT'S RECOMMENDATION UNDER ARTICLES 3, 117 AND 274 OF THE CONSTITUTION OF INDIA

[Copy of letter No. 16017/4/96-SR, dated 13 November, 1996 from Shri Indrajit Gupta, Minister of Home Affairs to the Secretary-General, Lok Sabha.]

The President, having been informed of the subject matter of the State of Uttaranchal Bill, 1996 by Shri Manbendra Shah, M.P., has accorded his recommendation under articles 3, 117(1) and 274 (1) for introduction and under article 117(3) of the Constitution for consideration of the Bill in Lok Sabha.

FINANCIAL MEMORANDUM

As new judges are to be appointed for the High Court of Uttaranchal (clause 16), their pension is a charged expenditure on the Consolidated Fund of India. However, at present it cannot be estimated the amount which will be involved and from when.

As a State, Uttaranchal will be entitled to a share in the income tax and additional excise duty of the Central Government. There will be some revenue receipts from the areas now covered under the new State of Uttaranchal. However, there may be a gap between the revenue receipts and expenditure. The Central Government will have to provide such quantum of grants-in-aid to the new State as may be necessary by suitably amending the provisions of the Constitution (Distribution of Revenue) Order 1985, in exercise of the powers given by clause 23 of the Bill. No exact estimate can be given about the amount likely to be given to the State as grants-in-aid but it is estimated that it may involve expenditure to the tune of rupees two hundred crore.

MEMORANDUM REGARDING DELEGATED LEGISLATION

Clause 23 of the Bill empowers the President to determine by order the grant-in-aid to the new State and its share Central taxes and amend for that purpose of relevant provisions of the Additional Duties of Excise (Goods of Special Importance) Act, 1957, the Union Duties of Excise (Distribution) Act, 1979, the Estate Duty (Distribution) Act, 1962, and the Constitution (Distribution of Revenue) Order, 1985.

Clause 36 of the Bill empowers the Central Government to make rules to give effect to the provisions of the Bill. The rules if any will be confined to matters of procedure and other matters of minor detail relating to the enforcement of the various provisions included in the Bill.

The rules to made will relate matters of detail only and as such the delegation of legislative power is of a normal character.

45 of 1860.

Article 44 of the Constitution states that the State shall endeavour to secure for the citizens uniform civil code throughout the country. The present Bill is a step in that direction. It seeks to prohibit polygamy and permits the courts to grant maintenance and decide about the custody of children and disposal of the property for benefit of women and children. The Bill does not take away rights of the parties to obtain divorce on the grounds available under personal laws but makes it mandatory to obtain it through intervention of the court. It also permits the divorce on mutual consent where the marriage has broken down and cannot be reconciled.

The Bill seeks to achieve the above objective.

 $B_{\rm E}$ it enacted by Parliament in the Forty-seventh Year of the Republic of India as follows:—

1. This Act may be called the Hindu Marriage (Amendment) Act, 1996.

Short title.

25 of 1955

2. In section 5 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 (hereinafter referred to as the Principal Act), in clause (ii), in sub-clause (c), the words "or epilepsy" shall be omitted.

3. In section 13 of the Principal Act, in sub-section (1), clause (iv) shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 13.

4. In section 23 of the principal Act, in sub-section (2), in the proviso, the word, brackets and figures "clause (iv)" shall be omitted.

Amendment of section 23.

Section 5 (ii) (c) of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955, provides that at the time of marriage, neither party should be subject to recurrent attacks of epilepsy. Epilepsy is curable and should no more be a condition of marriage and needs to be deleted.

Section 13 of the Hindu Marriage Act, 1955 provides that a marriage can be dissolved by a decree of divorce on the ground that one of the party is suffering from a virulent and incurable form of leprosy.

By latest research, scientists have proved that nothing is impossible in this world and modern science can cure epilepsy and leprosy patients. The epilepsy and leprosy patients can not only be cured but can lead a normal happy married life also. The provisions in sections 5 and 13, however, are clogs in the improvement of lot of epilepsy and leprosy victims.

The Bill, therefore, seeks to delete the provisions which provide for the dissolution of marriage on the ground that one of the party to the marriage is suffering from a virulent and incurable form of leprosy or one of the party to marriage was suffering from epilepsy at the time of marriage.

Hence this Bill.

- "(1) The Central Government may, by notification in the Official Gazette, in consultation with the State Governments, make rules for carrying out the provisions of this Act.".

69 of 1980

The Forest (Conservation) Act, 1980 provides that any forest land or any portion thereof may be used for any non-forest purpose provided it has the approval of the Central Government. As per the provisions of the Act, the developmental activities in the rural areas, especially in hilly areas, have come to a standstill. No new roads, water canals, etc. are being constructed after 1980-81. There is great resentment among the people regarding this Central law. Therefore, the amendment of the Act is necessary in order to accelerate the progress of the country.
